

A CLINICAL CASE OF INFILTRATIVE-PURULENT TRICHOPHYTOSIS OF THE SCALP

About the author	Dudchenko M.O., Mashtakova I.O.
Heading	CLINICAL CASES
Type of article	Scientific Article
Annotation	Infection caused by fungi of the genus Trichophyton is characterized by a wide distribution in the external environment. The article highlights the relevance of the problem of the incidence of ringworm in the population of Ukraine, the analysis of its specific features and the clinical picture of the course. Purpose is to share the experience of clinical and laboratory diagnostics and effective treatment of a patient with trichophytosis. Materials and methods. A clinical case of Trichophyton mentagrophytes skin lesions of the scalp. Results. The patient was examined in detail with the use of microscopic and mycological (seeding material on a nutrient medium) research.
Tags	dermatovenerological diseases, fungi, diagnosis, treatment.
Bibliography	1. Volkoslavskaya V. M. Ridkysni mikozy: ne zabuvaiemo pro parshu (favus) [Rare mycoses: let's don't forget about scab (favus)]. Dermatology and venereology. 2023;(101): 25–26. 2. Stepanenko VI, Shupenko MM, Nedoboi PM, et al. Dermatolohiia, venerolohiia: pidruchnyk [Dermatology, venereology: a textbook]. K.: KIM; 2012. 846 p 3. Diahnostyka ta likuvannia v dermatovenerolohii [Diagnosis and treatment in dermatovenerology] / Ed. by GI. Mavrov. «Dovidnyk likaria Dermatoloh* Veneroloh». K.: TOV «DoktorMed»; 2011. 278 p. 4. Murzina E. O., Vozianova S. V. Tykhofitiia volosystoi chastyny holovy u doroslykh [Trichophytosis of the scalp in adults]. Simeina medytsyna. 2016; 3:86–88.
Publication of the article	«DERMATOLOGY AND VENEREOLOGY» №3(105), 2024 year, 19-21 pages,
DOI	10.33743/2308-1066-2024-3-19-21